

Dermot Barry is the Microsoft Worldwide Managing Director for Public Safety and Justice. His background is predominantly in both the Emergency Management and Justice areas. Prior to joining Microsoft his role was as the Director of Strategic Services with the South Australian Fire and Emergency Services Commission with responsibility for emergency service IT, Communications, risk management, emergency management and strategic planning. He was a member of the Australian National Spatial and Information Management committee.

His emergency service experience comes from serving 21 years as an operational fire officer with the South Australian Metropolitan Fire Service ranging in roles from firefighter/pump operator, Rescue Training Officer and incident commander at the scene of a multitude of emergencies. He has worked as the State Planning Officer for Bushfire emergencies and been involved in numerous IMT's and EOC's. He is admitted as a Member of the Institution of Fire Engineers.

He has a law degree and has practiced as a Solicitor/Barrister in both the Criminal and Employment Law fields. He was admitted to practice in the Australian Supreme and High Court in 2003. He served 3 years with the Australian Army.